

Internet Resources for Teachers and Students

- Official Website of Mission San Luis
<http://www.missionsanluis.org>
Information about site visits and education programs. Section dedicated to the history and archaeology of San Luis. Lesson plans and Teacher's Resource Guide are available for use.
- Division of Historical Resources, Florida Department of State
<http://dhr.dos.state.fl.us>
Links to the Bureau of Archaeological Research, Bureau of Historic Preservation, and other resources within the Division.

<http://dhr.dos.state.fl.us/preservation/trails/spanishcolonial/index.cfm>
Spanish Colonial Heritage Trail

<http://dhr.dos.state.fl.us/preservation/trails/nativeamerican/index.cfm>
Native American Heritage Trail
- Exploring Florida: Social Studies Resources for Students and Teachers
<http://fcit.coedu.usf.edu/florida/default.htm>
Developed by the Florida Center for Instructional Technology, University of South Florida. Includes thousands of Florida resources in all subject areas.

<http://fcit.coedu.usf.edu/florida/lessons/lessons.htm>
Short history of Florida presented through readings, questions, and activity sheets for upper elementary students.

<http://fcit.coedu.usf.edu/florida/photos/military/sanlu/sanlu.htm>
Four galleries showcasing images of San Luis.
- Optical Microscopy, National High Magnetic Field Laboratory, The Archaeology Collection
<http://micro.magnet.fsu.edu/micro/gallery/archaeology/archaeology.html>
Images of artifacts excavated from Mission San Luis, including the quartz crystal cross found in the Franciscan church.

Internet Resources for Teachers and Students

- Military Artifacts of Spanish Florida, 1539-1821, An Internet Museum
<http://www.artifacts.org>
Online exhibition of Spanish military artifacts from southeastern North America.

<http://www.artifacts.org/Mission.htm>
Examination of artifacts specific to the Spanish mission period.
- Florida Wildflowers, Seeds of Discovery
<http://www.flwildflowers.com/San%20Luis/>
Article discussing the excavation of passionflower seeds at Mission San Luis.
Addresses indigenous foods, as well as Old World ones.